If you've made someone happy
You're as rich as you ever need to be.
—Robin Williams
"Mork"

It's so comforting to spend a few hours with a friend ...
To laugh about silly things we've done
together in the past,
To talk over the latest important and unimportant happenings
in each of our lives,
To dream and fantasize a bit about what
the future may hold.
And sometimes we might just sit quietly together ...
Drawing from the strength
each gives the other,
Enjoying a few minutes
of tranquil peace,
Building up courage to turn and face the world again.

SECTION YEARBOOK

THE HOSTAGE DRAMA

On November 4, 1979 the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was seized by Iranian militants who took 66 U.S. diplomatic personnel prisoner. Thirteen of them were released November 20 and another on July 17, 1980. On November 14 Iran announced that it would withdraw its assets from U.S. banks. President Carter forestalled that action by freezing all Iranian assets. He severed diplomatic relations with Iran on April 7, 1980 and ordered trade sanctions against Iran April 17. Eight days later eight servicemen were killed during an aborted rescue mission.

On November 2, 1980 the Iranian Parliament, the Majlis, approved the hostage release terms announced September 12 by Ayatollah Khomeini: The U.S. must release property and assets of the Shah, cancel all financial claims against Iran, release all of the frozen assets, and promise not to interfere in Iran's internal affairs. As the weeks progressed there were debates over and slight modifications to this proposal until December 19 when Iran came out with its "final reply to U.S. proposals." Their demands were that the United States deposit 24 billion dollars in the Central Bank of Algeria before the hostages were released.

On January 15, Behgud Nabavi, Iran's chief negotiator said "Iran agrees in general with the U.S. proposal" but demands the transfer of frozen assets to an Eskrow account. On January 18 Nabavi announced that the U.S. and Iran have "reached an agreement on resolving the issue of the hostages." On January 20 at 12:25 p.m. (EST) two Algerian planes carrying the hostages left Tehran Airport for home.

ELECTION '81

Former California governor Ronald Reagan overwhelmed Jimmy Carter on November 4 to become the nation's fortieth president.

Public opinion surveys noted a trend toward Reagan in the final week of the campaign but virtually all said that the election was too close to call. The results, though, were one-sided. Nearly complete returns gave Reagan an absolute majority of the popular vote and an 8,285,987 vote (or 10 percentage point) lead over Carter. He carried 44 states and won 489 electoral votes compared to just 49 for Carter, who carried only 6 states and the District of Columbia.

Independent candidate John B. Anderson did not win any states. But with 7% of the vote he exceeded the 5% threshold needed to qualify for past election public financing.

Falling well below the threshold were the other three party candidates. Libertarian Ed Clark drew 876,557 votes (one percent) in nearly complete but unofficial returns. Trailing with Citizens Party entry Barry Commoner with 220,789 votes (0.3 percent) and Right to Life candidate Ellen McCormack with 34,744 votes (0.04 percent).

In the vice presidential position, chosen by Reagan, is George Bush.

ABSCAM

Congressional Scandal

Abscam, short for Arab-Seam, began in 1978 as an FBI investigation of stolen paintings and organized crime. By the time it disbanded early in February 1980 it had grown into a massive and highly secret undercover operation in which agents — posing as businessmen and rich Arab sheiks — had implicated eight members of Congress as criminals. These members supposedly agreed when asked if they could use their positions to help Arabs obtain U.S. residency, grants and gambling businesses for large sums of money in return.

SHIP SINKS

On Saturday morning October 4, 1980, the Prinsendam, a cruise ship owned and operated by Holland America Cruises burned and sank. The fire, which started in the engine room and spread to the rest of the ship, forced 470 passengers and crew members into canvas covered life boats on the open Alaskan seas while forty crew members remained on board to battle the fire. Altogether there were 510 people aboard.

Thirteen hours after the ship was abandoned, a rescue was made with helicopters and two ships. A head count was taken and it was not discovered until hours after the rescue was completed that 20 people could not be accounted for. A search was initiated and the missing lifeboat was not found until 1:30 Sunday morning. The 18 passengers and two paramedics aboard the lifeboat were cold, but alive and well.

EARTHQUAKE

On November 23, 1980, a disastrous earthquake leveling much of southern Italy left many homeless while approximately 3,068 were listed as dead.

Rescue attempts became delayed because of a breakdown in communication. It took several days for official rescue teams to assist many of the towns, therefore causing many of the villagers to offer aid to their relatives and friends trapped beneath the debris.

The Italian government argued that all had been done "within human and institutional possibilities of our system." The Liberal and Communist parties, however, attributed the high mortality rate to inefficient government interaction. The reactions of the Italian people toward their government's efficiency in administering aid will be seen in Italy's coming General Election.

BORDER DISPUTE

The Iran-Iraq border dispute began in March of 1980 when Iraq claimed three islands in the Strait of Hormuz, just off the coast of Iran. Tensions heightened when an Iranian revolutionary group claimed the attempted assassination of the Iraq deputy premier in Baghdad on April 1. Two Iraqis were killed in that incident. While Iranians and Iraqis clashed at their funeral, two more Iraqis were killed in the fighting. Three days later both countries put their armies on full alert and seven thousand Iranians were expelled from Iraq.

As the weeks progressed this aggression increased. Iraq's president Saddam Hussein made a few attempts to negotiate a ceasefire and compromise but the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini refused, arguing that "they are corrupt". Conditions worsened on September 10 as Khomeini announced on the radio that he had dismissed all peace proposals. He stated that he would fight against Iraq "to the end and God willing be victorious."

On September 20 the fighting had accelerated. The next day Iraq claimed that it shot down an Iranian F-4. On the twenty-second Iraqi jets struck ten Iranian airfields. Iraq's prime targets were Iran's oil ports and refineries.

As the war continues, both countries are fighting for land and principles. Both have had their gains and losses but neither is willing to compromise.

SOLIDARITY FOREVER

Workers at the Lenin Shipyard in Gdansk, Poland went on strike. Nearly 16,000 workers walked off their jobs in defiance of the Communist Party in Warsaw. The striking union, Solidarity, led by Lech Walesa, called for higher wages, increased food supplies and political reforms.

On the seventeenth day of strike, news came that Warsaw had agreed to allow the formation of self-governing, independent trade unions. The Politburo also agreed to allow the workers a legal right to strike, unheard of in Soviet bloc countries.

The Polish government had been stressing industrial investment at the expense of consumer goods. As a result of these government investments, shortages of all consumer goods and a national debt of 21 billion dollars had caused the Polish people to strike. Of 500 Poles interviewed, 86% replied that their purchasing power was insufficient and only 3% would vote Communist Party in a free election.

But the strikers determination has evidenced gain; most recently an

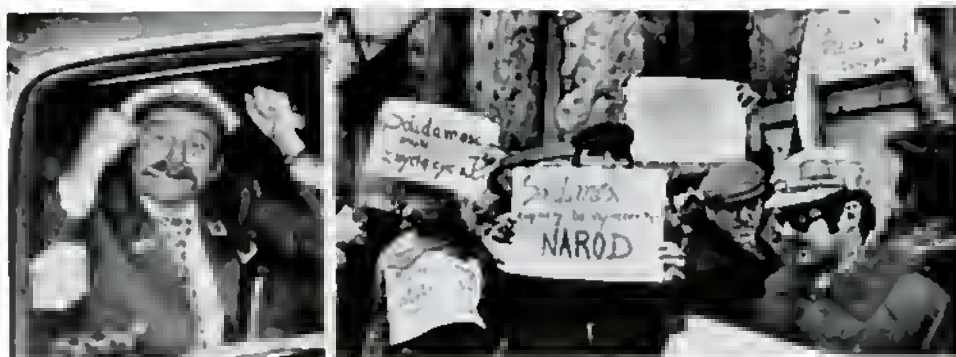

NUCLEAR CLUB

The threat of nuclear disaster is becoming more eminent as more countries have access to new technology and increased scientific knowledge. Currently six countries have built and tested nuclear devices. Within ten years, twenty countries will have joined the nuclear-weapons club.

President Carter's Administration has tried to slow down nuclear proliferation, but "at this point," says Adrian Fisher, former deputy director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, "I think the most we can hope for is simply to slow down proliferation until we get a more intelligent world order."

agreement has been enacted to allow for a five day work week where previously it consisted of six. But the repercussions of Solidarity's unification can be felt throughout the Communist Party. Edward Giersek, Communist Party leader was dismissed and replaced by Stanislaw Kania. Rumors of a Soviet invasion are popular. So strong are the strikers that recently even Western Europe and the U.S. have been feeling its effects.

Said Kania of Poland's future: "Things are very bad and there is nothing to suggest that they will be better in a month or even six months." Until things are better, Solidarity will continue to strike. And although "tanks can guard us," Walesa defies, "they cannot make us work."

BLACK YOUTHS SLAIN

Over a period of fourteen months, from September 1979 to November 1980, fourteen black youngsters from Atlanta's south side, ranging in age from 7 to 15, have disappeared. Ten have later been found murdered. All but two of the victims were male. Causes of death varied from strangulation, to stabbing and bludgeoning. Still, a three month old police task force of 24 investigators have not come up with a single lead or motive. Atlanta's south side is gripped with fear.

The Georgia Bureau of Investigation, the FBI and psychiatrists at Emory University are all providing needed aid. A parents' group, called the Commission to Stop Children's Murders, (STOP), set up a hotline and began some detective work in order to halt the murders. Efforts have failed. "There is no evidence linking these deaths with KKK, neo-Nazis or any other white supremacist group."

Not only have the murders affected Atlanta, but more recently Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Buffalo have reported murders involving unusually large numbers of blacks. In Buffalo, six black men were killed, two of them left with their hearts ripped out. Also, Black leader Vernon Jordan was shot.

The killings have not only affected Atlanta and Buffalo, but throughout the U.S. many blacks are scared for their lives and the lives of their children. Some see the murders as a "backlash against blacks." And until these murders are solved and the antagonism stopped, fear and anxiety will prevail in the black community.

BEATLES STAR MURDERED

Former Beatles rock musician and composer John Lennon, was shot and killed December 8, 1980 in New York City. Lennon, 40, was hit by bullets in back, left arm and chest outside his apartment building, The Dakota, in N.Y.'s upper west side. He was later pronounced dead on arrival from loss of blood at a nearby hospital.

Police identified the murderer as Mark David Chapman of Honolulu. The alleged murder weapon was a .38-caliber handgun. Chapman was charged with second-degree murder and criminal possession of a revolver.

Worldwide shock was the response to Lennon's death. In NYC, people silently mourned the musician's death outside his former apartment building.

Radio stations continually played Beatles music in tribute to the singer.

In 1964, The Beatles made their first concert tour of the U.S. and enjoyed an unbroken string of hit records including "Love Me Do." As a lead singer, composer and lyricist, Lennon was considered the spokesman and the coordinator of the group. The music of the Beatles issued a new wave in pop music and started Lennon to fame. His last recording is an album titled "Double Fantasy."

President Carter, honoring Lennon and his music said: "His spirit, the spirit of the Beatles — brash and earnest, ironic and idealistic — became the spirit of a whole generation."

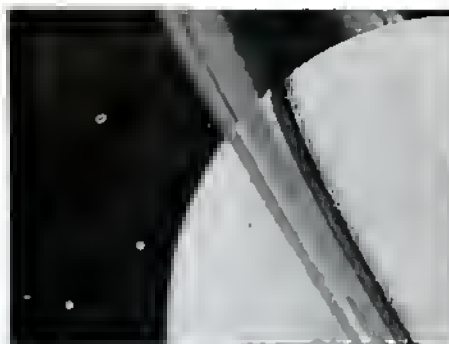

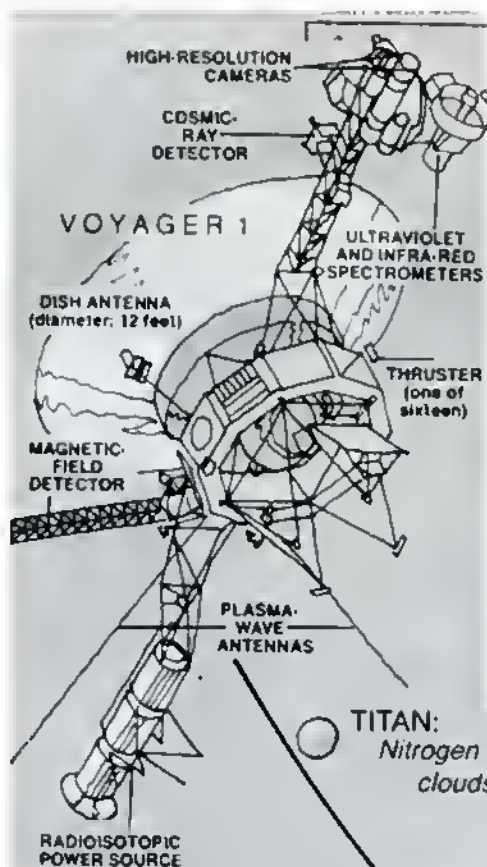

NEW VIEW OF SATURN

Three hundred and seventy years after Galileo observed the rings surrounding the sixth planet from the sun, Voyager 1 brushed past Saturn, the second largest planet in the solar system. Until Voyagers pictures of Saturn, the planet was virtually unknown. Through modern technology, however, actual pictures and data were relayed to earth. It took approximately 1 1/2 hours for the data to reach earth.

Saturn is a gaseous sphere composed mostly of hydrogen and helium. Until the images of Saturn were viewed, scientists hypothesized that there were only six Saturnian rings. Now there are 1,000 estimated rings and the gaps contain several dozen ringlets. The surface of Saturn is surrounded by liquid nitrogen. Orbiting the planet are 15 known moons including Titan and Dione. London's Sunday telegraph praised the achievement as "the most spectacular piece of space exploration since man stepped foot on the moon." The success of Voyager 1 has heralded the birth of new space explorations. The U.S. is ambitious to pass funding for VOIR, Venus Orbiting Radar Mission. By any measure, Voyager 1 is a superb accomplishment of man's technological achievement. And in the words of astronomer Carl Sagan: "I can't imagine anyone remaining blasé in the face of such accomplishments."

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF VOYAGER 1

ACUTE NURSING SHORTAGE

There is an acute nursing shortage in U.S. hospitals. There are currently 90,000 to 100,000 nursing vacancies in hospitals with 88% of the institutions unable to fill available positions.

This nursing shortage can be attributed to "burn-out" or "stress imposed by high technology of modern medicine, long hours, low pay and dissatisfaction with jobs." Most nurses leaving hospitals are opting for work in industry clinics, doctors' offices and teaching or private care. As a result, U.S. hospitals have to rely on foreign recruitments to fill the needed positions. Approximately 9,000 foreign nurses a year receive jobs in U.S. hospitals.

Hospitals are implementing new recruiting ideas and fringe benefits to attract new nurses. And many hospitals are also trying to strengthen relationships between nurses and physicians. Strained relationships with doctors have caused many nurses to quit their jobs. "The nurse of the future intends to be a separate but equal partner."

WORLD SERIES

The competing teams in the Pennant playoffs this year were the Philadelphia Phillies and the Houston Astros in the National League, and the New York Yankees and the Kansas City Royals in the American League. The Phillies took the Astros in a five game battle while the Royals finished off the Yankees in only three games. The Phillies entered the World Series with the Royals and won four games out of six.

ALI DEFEATED

On September 29, 1980 Three-time champion boxer Muhammad Ali, 38, met his defeat in a battle against Larry Holmes, 30, World Boxing Champion.

In an eight million dollar bargain, Ali once again decided to challenge Holmes after a two year retirement.

By the end of round one, Ali clearly was fatigued. But he continued until the fight was ordered to stop by manager Herbert Muhammad, at round ten.

Ali made excuses to try to account for his display of poor boxing ability. "This was not the real Ali," he insisted. And as usual he proclaimed, "I shall return." The big question now is will he?

DURAN LOSES

Lightweight Roberto Duran lost his title of World Lightweight champion to Sugar Ray Leonard. The match ended in the eighth round when Duran threw up his arms complaining of severe stomach pains, which he later claimed were due to overeating. Duran spoke of retiring, but later changed his mind to once again compete for the title.

SUPER BOWL '81

The Philadelphia Eagles and the Oakland Raiders entered the Superbowl on January 25, 1981 after defeating teams in their respective sections.

Throughout the game, the experienced Raiders dominated the field, leaving behind the Eagles. This was the first time the Eagles had made it to the famed Superbowl.

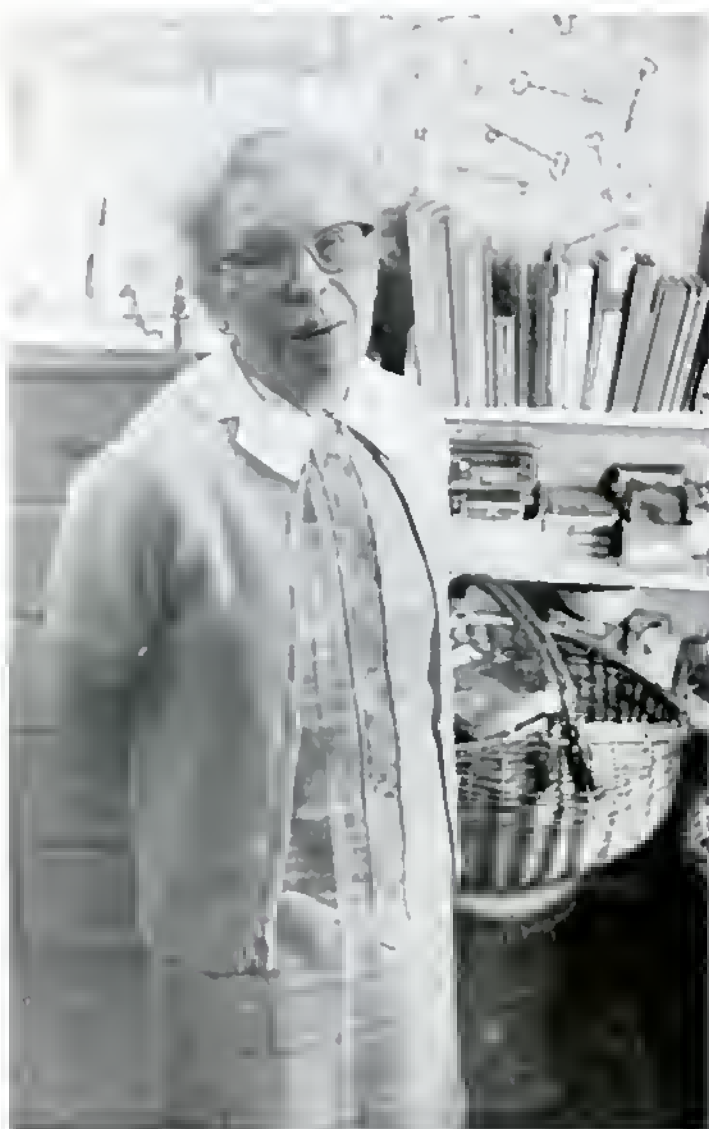

The Raiders intercepted three passes, winning the Superbowl with a score of 27 to 10. Jim Plunkett, of the Raiders, was voted Most Valuable Player.

The players, in a display of nationalism, wore yellow tape on their helmets in honor of the hostages.

Alice Aycock is an important and prolific artist. Her sculptural constructions have been exhibited in a variety of prestigious institutions such as: the Museum of Modern Art, New York; San Francisco Art Institution; Artemesia Gallery, Chicago; and Amherst University, Massachusetts. Aycock's three-dimensional constructions possess a psychological as well as physical impact. Her work has been described as Constructive, Expressionist, and Surrealist.

The "air-built" structures of Aycock are mental constructs related to antique monuments such as: sanctuaries, pyramids, mazes, tombs, and cenotaphs. The artist's stated intention has been to create "bizarre spatial experiences." She designs her dream dwellings on paper and then they are built under her close supervision. This is true of the Plattsburgh piece, "The Savage Spunkler" which was exhibited in Myers during the artist's residency at the college.

We're Alpha Kappa Phi, more commonly known as the Ago's. Our sorority has existed since 1892 and throughout we have strived for unity and friendship among ourselves and the community.

In the past we've helped on community projects with the Red Cross, the Senior Citizens, and others. We are also active in Inter-fraternal activities.

We are all individuals who have come together for one specific purpose — to be one in sisterhood — one which we are all proud to be a part of.

During our thirteen year existence, the brothers of Psi Epsilon Chi have built an impressive fraternity history of continuous community service.

Psi Ep's monthly blood drives provide CVPH with a large share of donations each year. Our annual bike-a-thons have raised over $70,000 for cancer research.

These and many more charity programs we sponsor have caused us to be awarded the college's President Cup during homecoming six of the last seven years.

We also encourage any men interested in joining our fraternity to ask us any questions they may have about us.

Throughout its 111 years, Clio has meant a great deal of different things to many different people. We have changed, and grown with time. However, our ideals have always been the same. Our goals are to work with and for others, and to give of ourselves as we enrich our own lives.

Clio girls have been active in both college and community activities. Last year we collected money for the March of Mothers Against Birth Defects. We participated in several college events including Open House and Homecoming Weekend.

Most importantly, our sisterhood is based on individuals — individuals with different ideas, interests, accomplishments, backgrounds and goals. These individuals come together and share a love and respect for our sorority and each other.

The unting thread of membership in Sigma Tau Sigma is brotherhood among all those who wear our crest. Brotherhood has many facets, including love, honesty, friendship, and understanding. In the day to day functions of our Fraternity House, located at 147 Brinkerhoff Street, brothers come together to contribute their individual talents towards the solution of a common problem. When accompanied by a feeling of Brotherhood among the participants, living, working, studying, and partying take on new dimensions.

Over the past academic year Sig Tau has shown its commitment to the Community, to Charity, and to Campus Involvement. We participated in and organized charity and campus fund raisers which netted over $17,000 for organizations such as Cystic Fibrosis, United Way, American Red Cross, March of Dimes, Champlain Valley Physicians Hospital, and many more. Because of this unmatched dedication, Sig Tau was awarded the President's Cup during this year's Homecoming Weekend.

Sigma Tau Sigma has placed a high priority on Intramural sportsmanship and athletic activity, fielding a team for almost every sport offered. Our campus involvement has centered around the Weekends Committee, Plattsburgh's Jazz Ensemble, Students in Free Enterprise, the Senior Nursing Class of 1980, and the Plattsburgh State Basketball Team.

Our membership is open to any male student attending SUNY at Plattsburgh. Once inside the doors of our house, you'll feel the enthusiasm that all brothers of Sigma Tau Sigma possess.

Thallians pride themselves on their sisterhood. Each and every girl holds qualities she contributes freely to her sorority making the successful blend we call Theta Alpha Lambda.

Successful because along with our feelings for sorority, we spread out into areas of community service, college sponsored functions, campus activities and those fraternity get-togethers.

As you pledge, you learn and experience the true meaning of cooperation and caring from girls who believe in and care so much about you that we're helping you discover the sorority we've come to love.

Rising above the term "CLICK", Thallians is a close-knit group, but like any group, can only grow through expansion, and with this, Thallians open their hearts to the land of girls that have been keeping Thallians on top.

Follow those Thallians!!

We've lived ...
We've loved ...
We've laughed ...
We've learned.

"Yesterday's over my shoulder
 and I can't keep looking backward too long
 'cause there's too
 much to see
 waiting in front of me and I know I just can't let it go by ..."
 —Jimmy Buffet

GRADUATION

As the 1980-81 Cardinal Yearbook nears completion we take the time to reflect on the past few months. Putting together a yearbook takes a lot of time and dedication. It can reach the point where it begins to dominate your free time and energy. But without the help of many people it would have been even harder.

We would like to thank Bonnie for all of her time spent in the darkroom, Kathy and Sue for their job of gathering sports information, Kim for her time on the phone with the Greeks, and Chris, Rick and Denise for their part on the news section. Thanks also go out to Brian for his fantastic job on the concert section, to Steve Berman, Cardinal Points and Robin Brown for their pictures in the sports and play sections, and Mary Lou Camillone for her sunset shot on pages 8 and 9.

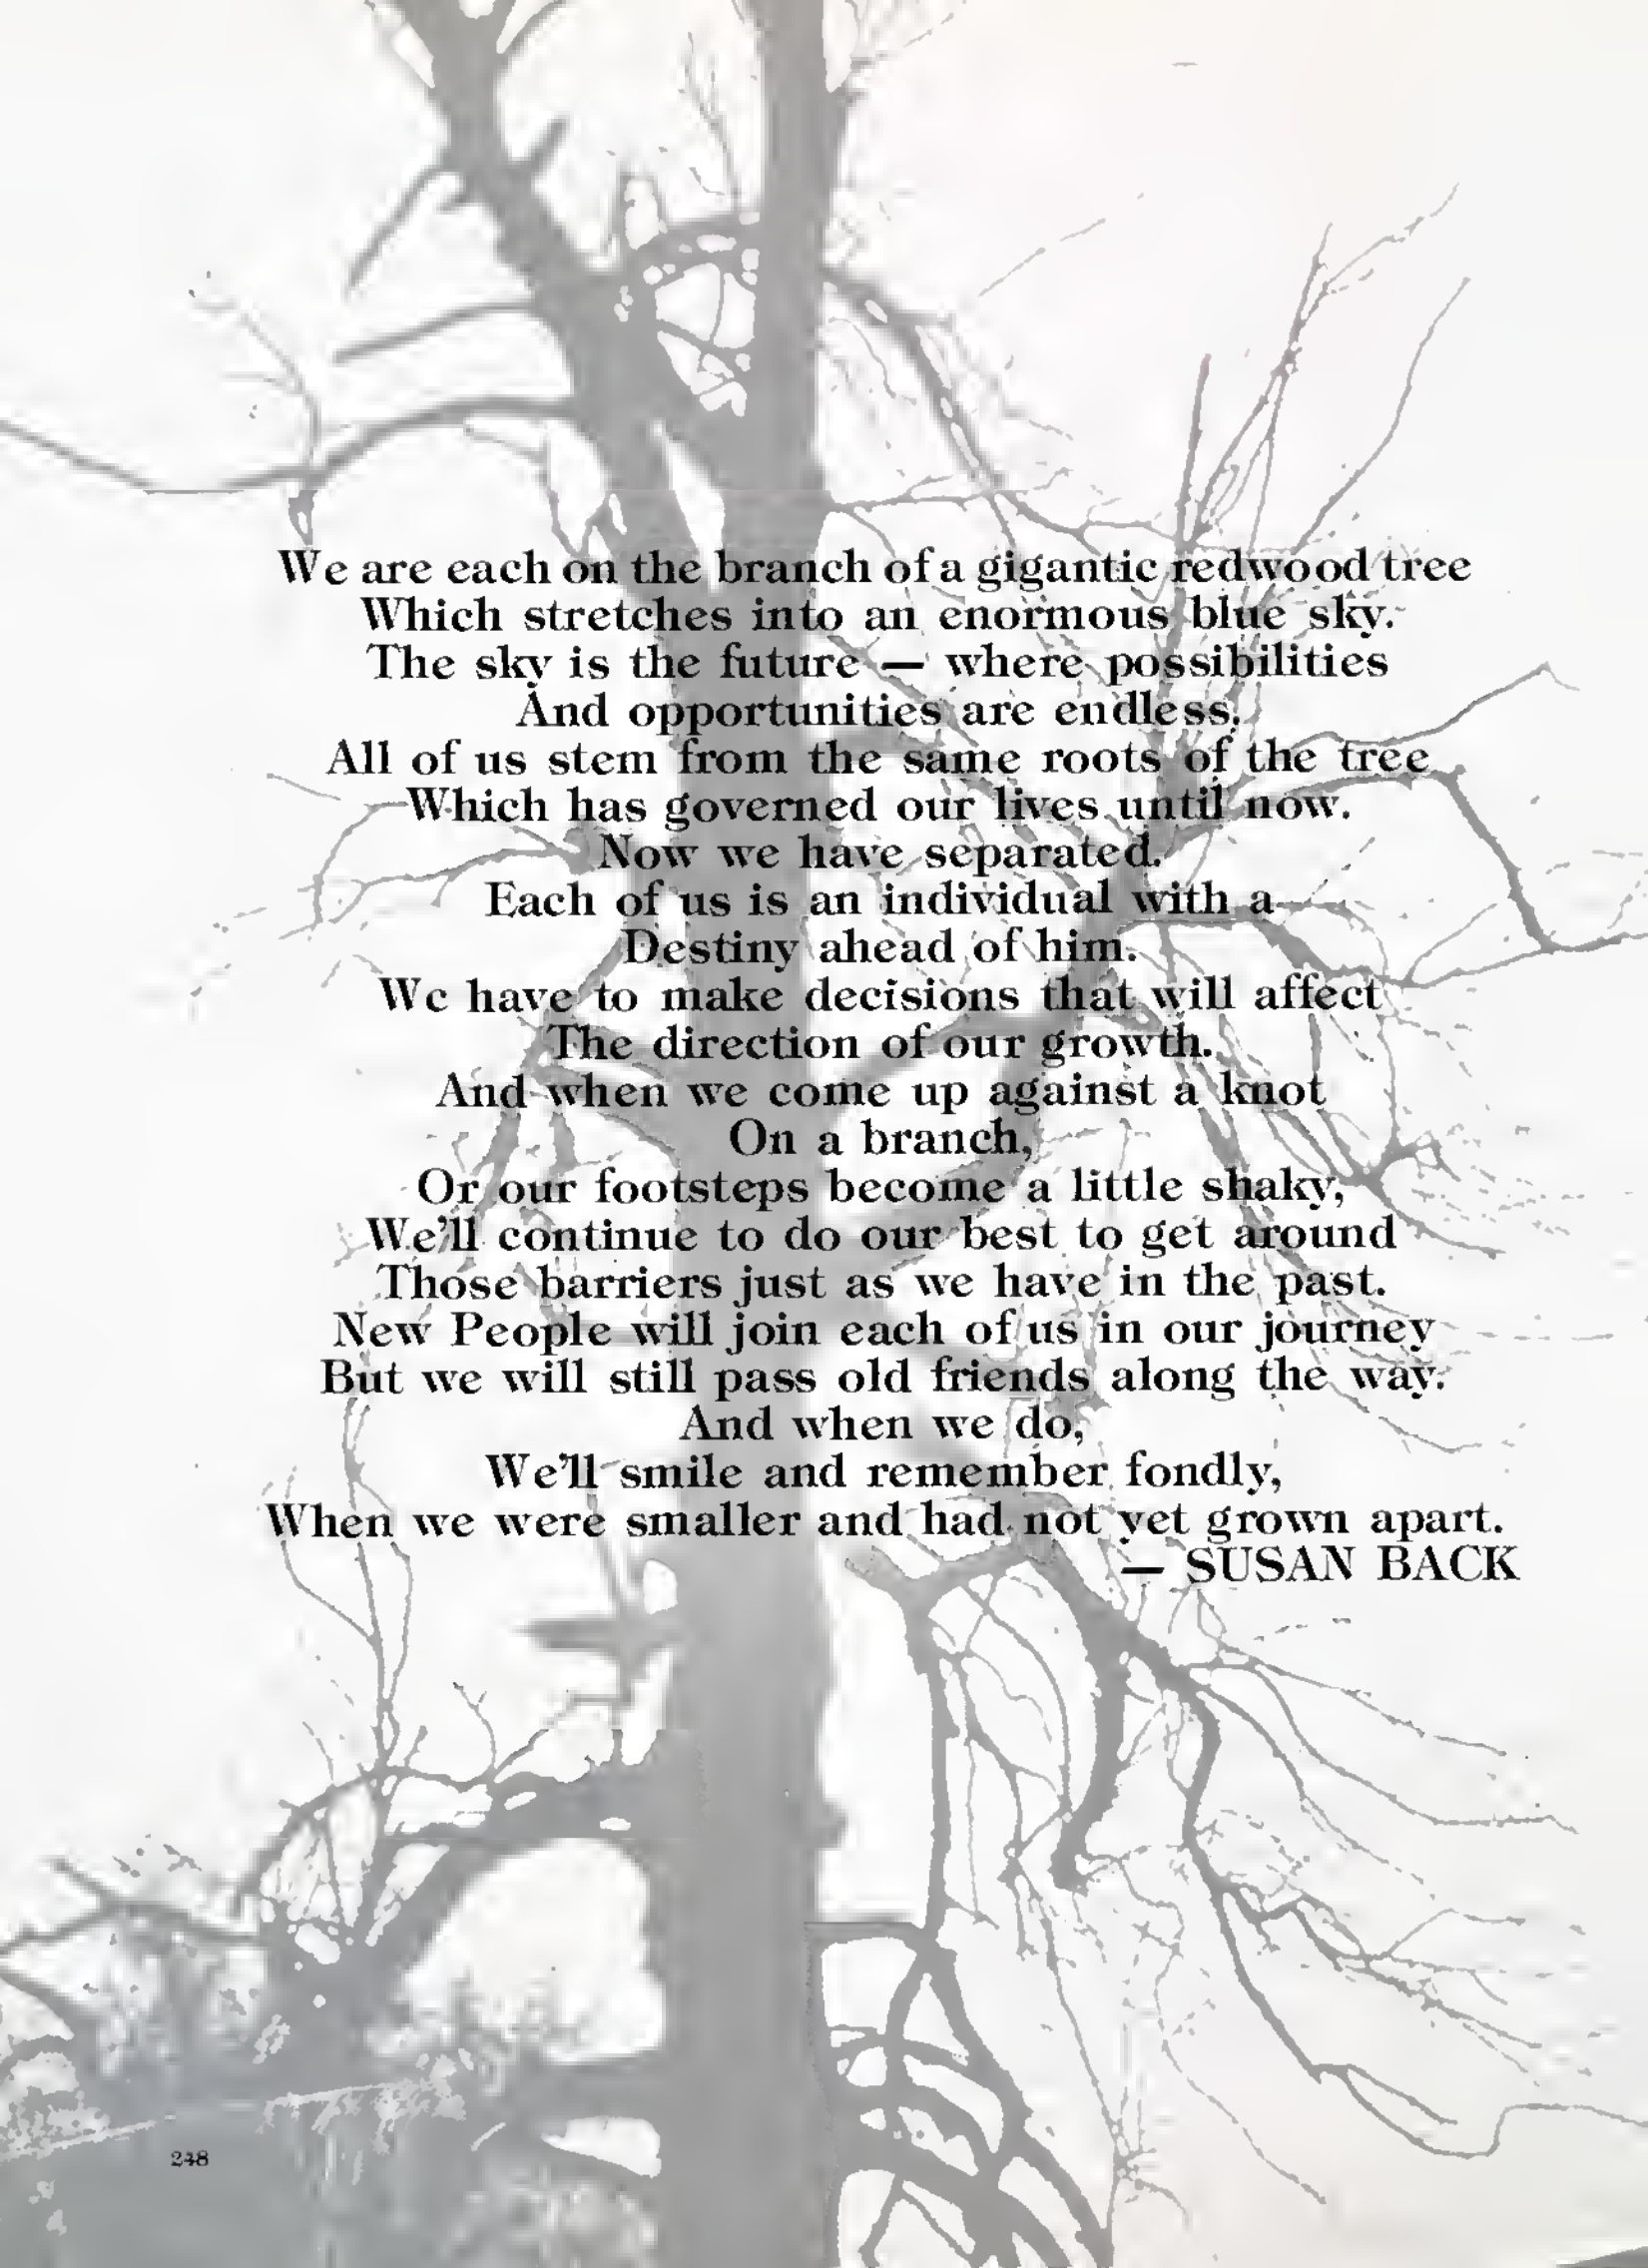

Many grateful thanks also go out to our Delmar representative, Gary Gold, whose patience and expertise helped pull us through some rough times. We also thank Gerson Sirot of Delma Studios, our advisor Al Montanaro and finally, Mrs. P for all of her patience when it came to finding out all sorts of information.

But most of all we thank you — our fellow students at PSUC — for without you there would be no reason for a yearbook.

Yesterday is but a memory,
And tomorrow is only a vision.
But today well lived
Makes every yesterday a memory of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well, therefore, to this day.

— Ancient Sanskrit poem

We are each on the branch of a gigantic redwood tree
Which stretches into an enormous blue sky.
The sky is the future — where possibilities
And opportunities are endless.
All of us stem from the same roots of the tree
Which has governed our lives until now.
Now we have separated.
Each of us is an individual with a
Destiny ahead of him.
We have to make decisions that will affect
The direction of our growth.
And when we come up against a knot
On a branch,
Or our footsteps become a little shaky,
We'll continue to do our best to get around
Those barriers just as we have in the past.
New People will join each of us in our journey
But we will still pass old friends along the way.
And when we do,
We'll smile and remember fondly,
When we were smaller and had not yet grown apart.
— SUSAN BACK
